THE DUAL PARTIAL LOCKOUTS

On Saturday night at 7:20pm AEDT, you will need to have your GWS and SWANS players locked in. This means they are locked into whichever slot you have them on your field or bench and if you have your them selected as CAPTAIN, VICE CAPTAIN or EMERGENCY, they will remain with that selected until the end of the full lockout. Same goes for the BLUES and TIGERS players next Thursday night. Just make sure you are happy with who's there and if they're your Captain, VC or Emergency before each partial lockout begins!

DT TALK ROUND ONE RECOMMENDATIONS INCLUDING ALL GWS GIANTS "LOCKS"

This is one of our real teams as it currently stands leading into Saturday's first lockout. Players are positioned for where they're locked in for Round 1.

The GWS rookies in this team have all been selected to take on the Swans; all of which have been named on the ground and will hopefully avoid the Green Vest (make sure you see the final team sheets on our website before the game to see who is the substitute).

The players from other teams are guys we all share and are very unlikely to leave our line ups over the next week. Ablett is locked as Captain as we have recognised his history against the Crows and his pre-season.

To see Roy, Calvin and Warnie's complete teams, purchase the Premium Edition of the Cheat Sheet from Sunday 12pm AEDT.

THE BYES

In 2012, the multi-bye rounds are counted in both league matches and overall ranking points. This means that ignoring them could cost you in both. Our strategy will be to limit players in a position who share the same bye to a maximum of 3 (2 in rucks). Trading players into your team after their bye for those with a bye coming up that week will be common practice. More on managing byes in premium edition.
