

FANTASY FREAKO'S

ROUND 2

2011

CHAMPION/DATA/ISSUE 2

Hi and welcome to the second edition of the Fantasy Freako's rave for 2011. Regardless of how you're faring after two rounds, this is the week to offload the underperformers and snap up those boom cash cows. If you've nailed your side and have all cash cows playing and performing well, then there's no need to trade just for the sake of it. Conserve your trades and use them only when needed.

Good luck to all coaches for the upcoming round, as it will be the last head-to-head round for three weeks.

WHAT A START TO THE YEAR FOR SWAN

If you took the captain's arm band off Dane Swan last week, then you would have felt sick in the guts when he came out and racked up a lazy 18 disposals in the second term against the Kangaroos – the most ever recorded in a second quarter. If you were playing against him, you would have felt even worse.

His start to the season has been remarkable, collecting 34 and 40 disposals from his first two games, scoring 137 and 162 points respectively. This gives you an average of 149 points per match and we have to go back to 1989 to find a more productive Dream Team start to the year. That year big Tony Lockett let loose, scoring nine goals and 153 points in Round 1 against the Brisbane Bears and he followed it up with another 10 goals and 160 points the following week against Carlton.

NOT BUDDY GOOD ENOUGH!

I think we all agree that there is no better player to watch when on song than Lance Franklin. However, he's one of the most frustrating players to have in your team, with his poor discipline causing coaches plenty of heartache over the years. If we look at free kicks against since 2008, he's well ahead of the pack giving away 151 in that time which equates to 453 Dream Team points down the drain. He's already given 11 away in two matches this season.

Although not every free kick is represented in the below table, the majority of his frees against have been for a push in the back (49), with a remarkable 31 given away for holding the ball, which is the second-most of any player in the league in this period behind team-mate Brad Sewell.

JASON PORPLYZIA

Just in case you haven't heard, Porplyzia's shoulder has given way yet again and he'll miss most of the season. Trade him out now!

BUY

MATTHEW WRIGHT

If the Crows elevate this bloke anytime soon, keep an eye on him. He's mature age and a potential trade down target.

@FantasyFreako - We can expect another big game from Thompson this week. He scored 143 points against the Dockers in Round 11 last season.

CLAYE BEAMS

Not the return I was hoping for from Beams. He was subbed out in the first game and then started as the sub last week against the Bulldogs. An average of 39 points per game from a cash cow is not acceptable.

BUY

JED ADCOCK

I hate pumping this bloke up. He's burned so many of us in the past, but he cannot be ignored. He played the perfect game last week against the Bulldogs finishing with 26 disposals and 112 points.

COLLINGWOOD

BUY

ANDREW KRAKOUER

We all know the upside to having Krakouer this year, but we may not get full value out of him if he's involved in subs each week. Despite this, he'll be more than a handy player.

BUY

CHRIS DAWES

With the amount of footy the Magpies will have inside their attacking 50 this year, Dawes will dominate, as he's done in the opening two rounds. Expect a huge price increase after this round.

The player to have from the Bombers this year has to be Heppell. He ranks seventh for points scored at the club and also provides the flexibility of being dual position. Expect him to play most if not all the games this season.

Winderlich is no longer a midfielder. After ranking fourth at the club for centre bounce involvements last season, he has failed to start at a centre bounce stoppage this season. This all but kills off his worth in Dream Team.

SELL

RHYS PALMER

Palmer is a genuine ball-magnet as he highlighted last week against the Cats scoring 53 points from only 30 minutes game time. His game time is a worry though and you can't afford to carry a bloke that's involved in subs each week. I would look at upgrading him this week.

SELL

JAYDEN PITT

I'm not sure how much we'll see of Pitt this season. Considering he was dropped for last week's match after the side had a win in Round 1, I can't see him being a regular.

COREY ENRIGHT

Look no further than Enright if you're looking at upgrading to a premium defender. He's likely to get tagged at some stage during the year, but he should still score consistently well nonetheless.

JAMES PODSIADLY

If you picked Podsiadly this season then you're one season to late. He looked terrible last week against the Dockers and only managed 21 points. Despite only playing the one game, I would look at moving him on this week.

@FantasyFreako - The Cats have won 29 of their past 30 games at Skilled Stadium. They will comfortably make it 30 out of 31 this week against the Power.

GOLD COAST SUNS

BUY

ZAC SMITH

Having a reserve ruckman that is playing each week in crucial this year. This makes Smith a must have in my opinion, especially after he scored 81 points on debut last week against the Blues.

SELL

KARMICHAEL HUNT

If you're one of the 37,190 coaches that selected Hunt this season, then I'm sure the novelty would have worn off after his 18 points on debut last week. He's not the cash cow to have this season.

HAWTHORN

BUY

LIAM SHIELS

If you've bombed out on a mid-priced player, then you can make amends by snapping up Shiels. He's been sensational in his first two matches and will have a huge price rise after this round.

SELL

JORDAN LEWIS

Lewis served me well last season, but his scoring seems to have come to a halt. His price will plummet after this round, so if he's in your team make sure you replace him this week.

@FantasyFreako - A one match ban will see Rioli sit out this week. He's now been reported five times since 2009, a worse record than Buddy.

MELBOURNE

BUY

LUKE TAPSCOTT

There will be plenty of coaches that jump on Tapscott this week. With scores of 80 in his two games this year he looks a safe selection most weeks.

SELL

MARK JAMAR

You can't knock Jamar for his effort, but he's just not going to score those big hundreds we need from our ruckman. If you can spare 50k then an upgrade to Cox or Sandilands may be the way to go.

@FantasyFreako - Melbourne was smashed in the second half last week by Hawthorn, recording only 13 forward 50 entries for the half. Skipper Brad Green was unsighted, collecting a dismal 19 points in that period.

NORTH MELBOURNE

SELL

SHAUN ATLEY

Like the Kangaroos themselves, Atley has been a huge disappointment. If you're chasing Cornow or Liberatore, they may be better long term options.

SELL

LIAM ANTHONY

With Anthony starting as a sub last week, it's not what we wanted. At his price we need a better return, so if you're in a position to upgrade him to a premium, I would do so this week considering the Roos have the bye.

@FantasyFreako - It won't get any easier for the Kangaroos after the bye. They travel out west to take on the Dockers in Round 4. BTW Pedersen, the man at the top of the Roos list, scored 97 in the VFL last week.

PORT ADELAIDE

DOMENIC CASSISI

The Power skipper will be sidelined for up to six weeks with a tibial fracture he suffered last week against the Eagles. If he's in your midfield he must be replaced immediately.

JACKSON TRENGOVE

If you're keeping Trengove for his dual position status, then you're wasting your time, unless you have Bradley as your ruckman, as they are the only two dual position players in def/ruck.

FantasyFreako

@FantasyFreako - Congratulations to Nick Riewoldt on his 200th game this week against the Bombers. His record against them is impressive, averaging three goals and 107 points per match since 2008.

SYDNEY SWANS

SELL

ANDREJS EVERITT

With two scores below 50, Everitt has to go this week. Unlike other Swans recruits in the past, he looks like being a DT flop.

BUY

RYAN O'KEEFE

After a poor pre-season, many coaches overlooked O'Keefe this year. But those who selected him will be delighted with his 119 and 102 points to start the year.

@FantasyFreako - Jude Bolton has been the Swans' best performer at Patersons Stadium since 2007, averaging 92 points per match.

WEST COAST EAGLES

SELL

BEAU WATERS

Although he wasn't as cheap as last year, over 14,000 coaches still selected Waters this season. He's succumbed to an elbow injury and will now miss up to three months. That's shocking news for us and the Eagles.

DEAN COX

If you haven't got Cox then now's the time to get him before his price rises. His 260 points from the opening two rounds ranks him fifth in the competition.

FantasyFreako

@FantasyFreako - Daniel Kerr hasn't played against Sydney since Round 11, 2008. That day he finished with 23 disposals, two goals and 100 points.

WESTERN BULLDOGS

BUY

TOM LIBERATORE

It was always going to be a toss of the coin between Liberatore and Wallis for a Round 1 debut, but Libba got the nod. His price will rise considerably after this round with scores of 72 and 116 in the first two weeks.

SELL

BARRY HALL

If you didn't listen to me last week, then make sure you do now. Hall has to go and considering the Bulldogs may rest him this week, that's more of a reason to trade him out.

@FantasyFreako - Matthew Boyd will be a very wise captain choice as this week. He will maul the Suns!
