ROUND 17

2011

CHAMPION/DATA/ISSUE 17

Hi and welcome to the seventeenth edition of the Fantasy Freako's rave for 2011. There was genuine pandemonium among coaches last week, as the Heath Shaw saga unfolded. In this week's rave I'll be concentrating on how to replace him, as well as give you the regular gold that will get you through to the next round.

Also as a side note, news out of the AFL this week is that we will return to the previous structure of a 22 round H&A season in 2012 (23 weeks with one split round) and most importantly the bye is done and dusted!

Enjoy this week's edition and best of luck to everyone for the upcoming round.

SHAW NO MORE

As I sat down to complete my trades last Friday afternoon, news filtered through that there was an important press conference about to commence. Before I knew it, Heath Shaw was suspended for eight weeks and my trade plans were thrown into disarray. This is yet another example of why trading as late as possible on a Friday is the only way to go. Luckily for me, I had held back and I was able to eventually move him out for Sam Fisher.

If you were one of those coaches that jumped the gun and traded early, then this week you must replace him. Looking at the leading candidates, a dual position player would be useful at this time of year, which brings into play the likes of Heath Scotland and Bryce Gibbs, but remember Carlton has a bye in Round 23 which could cause some problems.

One way to overcome that deadly finals bye is to bring in a player that has already completed his two byes, which then makes likes of Sam Fisher and Greg Broughton attractive propositions. Both players are solid scorers and in the case of the latter, he has taken over David Mundy's role in the midfield which has in turn seen his scores go through the roof. If you're after a point of difference though, then Stefan Martin could give you that vital edge come finals time. He has been one of the revelations of the season, averaging 88 points per match and an impressive 99 points across his past five games.

Below are some players worth considering, with those in green having already completed the two byes.

THE SUNS ARE SITTING DUCKS

It was always going to be the case with Gold Coast in its debut season and the numbers should be of no surprise to anyone. The Suns have conceded on average the most kicks, disposals, marks and goals of any team this year, which has been great when our players have played against them. They have conceded an average of 402 disposals per game – conceding a season-high 458 coming against Hawthorn in Round 13. This week they come against the might of the Magpies, which could see the likes of Dane Swan and Scott Pendlebury run riot, considering they rank first and second respectively in the league for average points scored this season.

Below are the team averages in terms what each club has conceded this season in the respective statistics.

ESSENDON

FREAKO SAYS:

For years now we've been teased by the prospect of Angus Monfries going into the midfield, and finally it's happened. He was the match-winner last week against Adelaide, collecting a career-high 35 disposals and his second-highest ever DT score. Let's hope he continues in that role.

There would have been plenty of coaches relying on Jeremy Howe last week as cover in the forward line. The fact that he started the game as a sub would have been a huge blow as he could only manage 21 points once he came on.

RICHMOND

FREAKO SAYS:

Chris Newman's 135 points last round was a new career-high, which was made up of 31 disposals, 11 marks and one goal. He looks very good value at that price, however be wary of Richmond's bye in Round 19.
