

FANTASY FREAKO'S

ROUND 3

2011

CHAMPION/DATA/ISSUE 3

Hi and welcome to the third edition of the Fantasy Freako's rave for 2011. As we enter the first of three consecutive multi-team round byes, there will be no head-to-head matches during these rounds. Our teams will be weakened by this, but I'm sure we have enough depth to cover any loss.

With player's prices changing this round, I have taken the liberty of including breakeven scores this week, which will be a regular feature for the remainder of the season.

Enjoy this week's read and also a big congratulations to Michael Murphy from Tullamarine who is this year's winner of the AFL Prospectus/Dream Team competition of 2 tickets to the 2011 Toyota AFL Grand Final. Good luck to his team 'The Crazy 99's'.

SAINTS ON THE SLIDE

After two losses and one draw to start the year, the bye could not have come at a better time for St Kilda. Its terrible start has also translated to AFL Dream Team, as they have averaged 215 fewer points per game this year compared to 2010, ranking 11th for points scored this season compared to second last year. Its drop off has been dramatic, ranking 11th in the AFL for marks (1st in '10), 12th for disposals (2nd in '10) and 15th for goals (8th in '10).

Looking at individuals, the two biggest sliders have been Jones and Peake, although they've been the starting subs so far, which explains their demise. The one player that will be of most interest to most coaches is Goddard, with last year's sixth-highest scorer falling in price by $32,900 after his indifferent start to the year. He has failed to crack the ton this season and is averaging 26 fewer points per game this year compared to 2010. Opposition sides haven't made it easy for him, with Corey, Deledio and Hocking all tagging him in the opening rounds, a trend I'm sure will continue for the rest of the year.

Of last season's top 15 players for average points scored, only four have increased their output this season, with Gram leading the way, up by 17 points per match. Armitage is next best and I expect him to improve even further in the absence of Hayes.

BARGAIN BONANZA

With player's prices changing this round, there are several that you need to keep your eye on in the coming weeks. As I've already highlighted, Goddard has had a very slow start by his standards and if you don't have him in your team, then you should earmark him for a trade after he plays his next match, which is in Round 5 against Brisbane.

Below I have handpicked 10 players that I will be monitoring, all being premiums in their respective positions. Alan Didak is one player I have my eye on, as I'm sure plenty of other coaches do also, with the intent of trading him in to replace Krakouer, who clearly isn't a keeper.

ADELAIDE CROWS

FREAKO SAYS:

The Crows injury crisis worsened last week with Phil Davis going down. He's likely to miss up to four weeks with the shoulder injury, which could see Neil Craig turn Luke Thompson to cover him. Thompson has scored 69 points from his only SANFL match this season and could be as decent trade down target in the coming weeks.

FREMANTLE

FREAKO SAYS:

Aaron Sandilands was on target for a huge score last week before Richard Tambling poked him in the eye. He was forced to sit out the remainder of the match, but he's pretty confident that he'll be ready for the Kangaroos this week.

PORT ADELAIDE

FREAKO SAYS:

Barring any injury, Jasper Pittard should go close to playing every game this season. He's been one of very few positives for the Power this season, averaging a respectable 60 points per match. Not bad for a basement priced player.

RICHMOND

FREAKO SAYS:

The Tigers were dismal last week against the Hawks, scoring only 1,245 points, that's worse than what the Suns' racked up against the Bulldogs. It's no surprise though, as their tally of 37 marks was their lowest tally in any game since 1999.
